Whether it's for business or pleasure, have you been spending so much time on the internet lately that your kids think you've disowned them, your mother is considering filing a missing persons report, and your significant other thinks you're seeing someone else?

No, don't tell me.

The internet is your significant other.

Uh oh.

Ever heard of internet addiction?

No, not you? It couldn't possibly happen to you?

But breaking up doesn't have to be hard to do.

And it goes a little something like this:

1. Go outside, Clyde.

2. Read a book, Brooke.

3. Bake a new cake, Jake.

4. Go to the park, Clark.

5. Play some chess, Bess.

6. Ride a bike, Mike.

7. Skate down the street, Pete.

8. Drive down the block, Jock.

9. Take a new cruise, Suz.

10. Play with your kid, Sid.

11. Call your mom, Tom.

12. See your sis, Miss.

13. Plant a tree, Dee.

14. Go to a spa, Ma.

15. Throw a party, Marty.

16. Make a new date, Kate.

17. Call a man, Nan.

18. Page a girl, Earl.

19. Go to a play, Clay.

20. Mow the lawn, Sean.

21. Take a trip, Skipp.

22. Ride on a plane, Dane.

23. See a show, Bo.

24. Exercise your faith, Lathe.

25. Bake a ham, Pam.

26. Write your dad, Tad.

27. Take a hike, Ike.

28. Play a game, dame.

29. Fly a kite, Dwight.

30. Bake a pie, Sy.

31. Smell a rose, Rose.

32. Get a tan, man.

33. Paint your gate, Tate.

34. Fix your truck, Buck.

35. Set sail, Gail.

36. Rent an inn, Flynn.
